Morning Session

Would You Rather

We have separated the morning into three sessions. The first session will look at looking into three types of different career paths with two very different approaches and jobs to attain the career goal. We will look at it from a trades perspective and a University perspective, allowing students to understand the depth of the career choices and how they are the same and how they are different, from salary to education to outcomes. The second and third sessions will do the same but include a speaker.

Event Organizer: Marlene Waterston, Waterston Consulting, CPHR, CAFM, CAPA

Real World Spending- Hands On Activity

A very unique game was created to take students on an adventure of grown up life, and will have them spending in the real world, depending on the assigned personal profile assigned, the students will be split up into two groups. The first group will spend money, and not budget at all, they will hopefully get to the end of the year with out going into debt and best case a little savings. They will visit expense boards and be forced to chose then what their decisions are, no going back once you spend its gone! The second group will spend time thoughtfully spending and making decisions to best plan out their "year in the life". They will prepare their budget, and be able to change their minds and revisit their choices to spend along the way.

A persona and budget will be given to each student and two winners will be chosen, one from each group who best spends their annual earnings to the best of their abilities reflecting from the choices they make in the real world.
